Hi Bryan,

Thanks for bringing this to my attention.

I think my response on IFCN having no role in Meta's 3PFC program applies to this John Stossel question as well.

Remember that in the unlikely event of a signatory being unresponsive (please email me the problem and I'll have the signatory look at it) that seriously violates the code, the user can file a complaint, which an external and independent assessor will review. The IFCN may come in later if it's a serious breach of the code.

I hope that answers your question.

Thank you.

Best,
