Dear Alex Mahadevan,

Thanks again for welcoming me at the Poynter Institute last Thursday.

Under the assumption that you delivered the message that the zebrafactcheck@gmail.com account owner was hoping for a response to a correction request, I have follow up questions.

From appearances, the IFCN seems to have no intention of fixing a set of errors that has been brought to their attention multiple times. Is the IFCN, under the Poynter Institute umbrella, answerable to the Poynter Institute? To whom should I inquire about holding the IFCN accountable for the repeated falsehoods? And on what day am I likely to find such persons present at the Poynter Institute?

Thanks!
